La Casa Nueva

Spanish Colonial Estate

4334 E. Desert Crest, Paradise Valley, AZ

Situated on an elevated, private cul de sac lot, this expansive estate offers exceptional views of Camelback Mountain. An authentic replica of La Casa Nueva – the original located along the coast of the Balearic Sea – this home features classic Spanish detailing, including ornate tile work, low-pitched clay tile roofs, small porches and balconies, and a wine cellar. Complementing the grace of the home's old world style are the many modern features, including Sub Zero appliances and a state-of-the-art home theater.

■ 8,038 sq. ft. livable, 2 story, Attached Guest House

Spanish Colonial Revival architecture shares many elements with the very closely-related Mission Revival and Pueblo styles of the West and Southwest, and is strongly informed by the same Arts & Crafts Movement that was behind those architectural styles. The style is marked by the prodigious use of smooth plaster wall and chimney finishes, terra cotta or cast concrete ornaments, Roman or semi-circular arcades, canvas awnings, and decorative iron trim.
